Single and Dual Source Methods of Identification

Single Source: Government Issued Photo Identification

The identification card or document must be face to face and contain the following:

- Include the individual's name
- Include the individual's photo
- Include a unique identifier number
- Be issued by a provincial, federal or territorial government in Canada OR is a foreign identification document that is equivalent to an acceptable Canadian photo identification card or document

Single Source: Canadian Credit Bureau Report Checklist

The credit bureau report information can be used for face to face or non-face to face identification however this method may prove challenging as all information on the credit check must match exactly what has been provided by the individual

- Match the name, address, and date of birth provided by the individual
- Include a unique identifier number (File Number or Unique Number)
- Be at least three years in existence

Dual Source: Combination of Two Sources

The two sources together must meet one of the following combinations and can face to face or non-face to face:

- The name and address on one document/source & the name and date of birth on the second document/source
- The name and address on one document/source & the name and confirms a deposit, loan or credit card account on the second document/source
- The name and date of birth on one document/source & the name and confirmation of a deposit, loan or credit card account on the second document/source

The documents or sources must be:

- Reliable
- From two separate, independent sources (issuers)
- Provide an account number, or if no account number, include a reference number pertaining to the document or source
- In its original format as received by the individual from the issuer
- Valid/legitimate (not altered)
- Current (not expired) or is the most recent version of the source (utility bill etc.)

Corporations

A corporation's existence, directors, beneficial ownership and powers to bind must be verified before an application can be processed.

- Beneficial Ownership: the following documents can be used to verify beneficial ownership of the corporation: Shareholders statement, register or agreement; articles of incorporation; bylaws; annual return, or an annual record that has been filed under provincial securities legislation.
- Powers to Bind: These can be confirmed by referring to any one of the following: Certificate of Incumbency, Articles of Incorporation, or Bylaws of the Corporation.
- Please provide copies of the documentation used to verify directors, beneficial ownership and powers to bind to League Savings with the completed application.
- Associations and Non-Incorporated Businesses- Existence and beneficial ownership must be confirmed for non-corporate entities.

Entities neither Individuals or Corporations

The following can be used to verify the beneficial ownership of an entity other than a corporation:

- partnership agreement
- a letter signed by all partners confirming the existence, ownership, control and structure of the partnership
- articles of association
- articles of constitution
- a letter stating the purpose, ownership, control and structure of the group (listing all the group members and signed by two signing officers)
- minutes of group meetings (listing the structure of the group, as well as all the group members and signed by the person recording the minutes)
